

EMPOR - the fourth studio album from the internationally acclaimed live techno phenomenon MEUTE

On February 23, 2024, EMPOR, the fourth studio album by the Hamburg Techno Marching Band MEUTE, will be released on their in-house label Tumult. EMPOR showcases the evolution of their musical identity through the elaboration of techno-inspired original compositions and reinterpretations of well-known techno tracks.

The album title not only symbolizes the feeling of boundlessness after the pandemic but also the extraordinary journey of the live techno phenomenon that once started on the streets of St. Pauli and is now celebrated worldwide.

"EMPOR is the collective ascent, the revival of possibilities, and an embrace of the boundless potential that awaits us," says band leader Thomas Burhorn regarding the choice of the album's name.

The album consists of ten tracks, featuring four MEUTE originals: "Vermis," "Aurora," "LoCKeDoWN2," and "Hypnose." Additionally, reinterpretations like "Loss of Hope" by Innellea and "Come Together" by Henrik Schwarz add layers of complexity to the record. The latter became even more organic through collaboration with the children and youth choir The Young ClassX.

EMPOR will be released on February 23, 2024, and is available for pre-order now, including bundle options.
