

Biography

If there is one female DJ and producer who is totally different - it will be ANN CLUE.

During the last years process of pushing the career for her best friend Boris Brejcha, she started producing her own style of electronic music. The past four years she has been living life on the edge, managing the agency and touring worldwide in the same time.

Maybe that's why we hardly ever hear from her - 'cause good things take time. Music has always been her passion and when she plays you know what it means.

Building up from melodic to heavy bass driven beats, she surprises everyone who is listening, again and again.

She is powerful, has a crazy amount of energy and her sets vary from deep dark melodic to acid and strong basslines.

Her latest track with Boris called `Roadtrip` and her latest single release `Dreamcatcher` shows exactly that. If you listen to her once - you will recognize there is really no one out there who can compete.

In 2017 and 2018 she played in more than 25 countries - her journey is to be continued..
